GERNERAL

Rust as a design medium can give a whole new look to ordinary every day objects. For this pulse , we decided to come up with something very special. We combine the familiar view of a display dummy with the characteristics of our oxidation lacquers

STEP 1

Plane small irregularities with the help of sandpaper and create an even surface.

STEP 2

Coat the whole body with universal primer and let it dry properly.

STEP 3

When the surface is perfectly dry, you may apply the metal primer and let it dry as in step 1. You obtain the „bursting“ surface, if you apply the iron primer like putty in different thicknesses and let it harden.

STEP 4

Once the iron primer is cured , you may set accents with our oxidation medias. Optical highlights may be generated by the chemical process, e.g. copper rust.

TIPP:

We have blindfolded our doll with a textile bandage. The fabric was treated with the universal primer and metal primer as well as the doll. You may see the result here.
